San Diego's BEST Restaurants

Whether it's a decadent dining experience or the best spot for a local microbrew you seek, here's a definitive list of the best San Diego has to offer

Rancho Santa Fe Tradition Mille Fleurs

For more than 30 years and counting, Mille Fleurs welcomes loyal guests who return time and again to celebrate special occasions or enjoy the true pleasure of a sumptuous meal together.

Best of Solana Beach Pamplemousse Grille

There's no arguing that Pamplemousse Grille has become synonymous with post-racetrack dining, but Chef Jeffrey Strauss' spectacular, mouth-watering French/Contemporary American cuisine makes it the Solana Beach superlative year-round. 858.792.9090, pgrille.com

The Patio on Goldfinch

Casual Festive Dining Casa de Bandini

Our go-to spot for casual celebrations, Casa de Bandini is the perfect place to bring your party of 20 to enjoy award-winning Mexican cuisine amid vibrant décor and head-swaying mariachi entertainment.

Traditional Japanese Sake House

This family-run gem in Leucadia (with a second location in Hillcrest) serves up Japanese comfort food (takoyaki, potato croquettes, ochazuke) with a smile. Add to that an impressive array of sake, along with anime and reggae tunes, and we're happy as a clam — or maybe a baked bay scallop.
